

A NEW DAWN FOR PANAMA

LEADING THE WAY IN LATIN AMERICA, PANAMA'S FUTURE IS BRIGHT.

Panama has seen unprecedented growth and prosperity thanks to the pro-growth, pro-business policies of President Ricardo Martinelli. Recently ranked one of the most economically competitive nations in the region, Panama has become a global hot spot for venture capital investment.

President Martinelli's aggressive 5-year, $20 billion investment plan is driving a growing economy and launching new infrastructure projects across the country and his crucial tax reforms are encouraging business to expand.

As a result, more and more Fortune 100 companies, including Procter & Gamble, General Electric, Johnson & Johnson and Dell have moved key operations to Panama. Foreign investment has grown on average 38% annually, since 2009, and free trade agreements have opened and modernized Panama's economic markets.

Robust domestic investments in health care, public transportation and education have resulted in millions of dollars for new hospitals, a new transportation system and schools.

Panama has not just weathered the economic crisis, but President Martinelli's forward-looking policies have helped Panama enjoy a new dawn of prosperity and promise, becoming a global epicenter for commerce and trade. Today the future is bright for Panama.
